NEWSLETTER

www.holyfamilyparish.org.uk

Sometimes we focus on saints who were popes or bishops, but we forget that most of the saints in heaven are good uncanonised people, who did their best on earth and now enjoy a heavenly reward. The gospel for this feast does not speak of great gifts of preaching. Instead, it describes the daily efforts and sufferings of countless people. God lovingly welcomes us as his children, though we are unworthy. Because of our hope of seeing God face to face in heaven, we seek to live pure lives on earth, turning away from distractions. The promise is that by his grace, we shall become like him, transfigured by his love.

The poor in spirit know that they are spiritual beggars, aware that they depend entirely on God. Power over the earth is not promised to the bullies, but to the meek and gentle. Life may not consist of one celebration after another, but rather of a series of sorrows and challenges. Doing right may cost us an easy life.

Where some people are harsh, the disciple of Christ is merciful. In a world of many distractions, the true disciple keeps a pure heart. In a society full of division, the real disciple speaks and acts to make peace. For the sake of what is right, Christ's disciples can face persecution. It is by their fruits, rather than by external success, that true disciples are known. We can draw inspiration from good people we have known who have shown us these qualities.

May we strive to be raised to eternal life as the church of saints.

Works of Mercy: Bury The Dead

November is dedicated to Honouring the Dead. Our Catholic Social Teaching informs us that human life is sacred and that the dignity of each person is the foundation of a Moral Vision of Society. We are reminded at every Funeral Mass that the life of the departed is not ended, but changed. You are invited to present names of family & friends who died in the last 12 months in the envelopes provided to be placed in the Petitions Box provided at the Altar next week. Their names will be read out at our special Remembrance Mass & candle lighting for families of the living and the dead on 15 Nov 10am. We also pray for those for who have no-one to pray for them. Our priests will visit and bless the graves of loved ones 9 Nov at Braywick (2pm) & Cookham (3pm).

There will also be opportunities in our local areas to remember, and pay tribute to, the fallen in war, next Sunday 9th, and on Armistice Day, Tuesday 11th November.
